

Reservation and cancellation

2026 edition — Contractual information document

Price

Agreed puppy price: €1,500 (applicable tax details appear on the invoice). A reservation is concluded exclusively at Dog Attitude premises, after submission of the fully completed, dated and signed purchaser profile, review of the project, express acceptance of the specific terms and signature by both parties. At that time, the purchaser pays €500 expressly designated as an ACOMPTE (binding advance payment) credited towards the price; the balance is €1,000. The litter, any individually identified puppy and the estimated handover date are recorded in writing. Remote exchanges do not create a binding reservation and no deposit is collected remotely.

Allocation and non-allocation

Allocation is based on an individual assessment of the puppy's development and proposed home and does not guarantee future behaviour. If Dog Attitude identifies a significant mismatch and proposes not to allocate the puppy initially considered, the purchaser may choose in writing: (1) a full refund of the €500 paid; (2) transfer to a future litter, subject to availability and a new agreement; or (3) a further three-month preparation period followed by reassessment. Neither postponement nor preparation is imposed. If a binding contract has already been formed, this proposed amicable solution does not restrict any other statutory rights or remedies available to the purchaser.

Later handover

Eight weeks is the statutory minimum age, not a mandatory handover date. Any later handover and additional boarding or preparation services are agreed in writing, including dates, prices, scope and cancellation terms, before charging.

Voluntary cancellation by the purchaser

A reservation signed at Dog Attitude premises binds both parties. If the purchaser withdraws for personal convenience without a lawful ground for termination, Dog Attitude may retain the €500 as an expressly agreed fixed cancellation indemnity, subject to mandatory consumer rights and the court's power to reduce a manifestly excessive contractual penalty (article 1231-5 of the French Civil Code). This provision does not apply where repayment is required by law or non-performance is attributable to Dog Attitude. Cancellation requests and any amicable agreement are recorded in writing.

In-person contract formation

Any preliminary contact by telephone, message, email or online form is informational only. A binding reservation requires review of the signed profile, express agreement by both parties and signature at Dog Attitude premises. The €500 payment is made on site. If the method of contracting changes, the applicable distance-selling or off-premises rules must be reviewed before this form is used.
